

This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

- + Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.
- + Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

Registered in England and Recorded in Scotland and Ireland pursuant to the 34th and 35th Victoria, chap. 31, and the 39th and 40th Victoria, chap. 22.

THE WORKMEN'S COMPENSATION ACT, 1906.

This Act, which repeals the existing Acts, came into operation on July 1st, 1907, and brings six million more workers within its privileges.

It sweeps away the incongruities created by the original statute by extending its benefits to nearly every kind of employment, this is effected by extending the word "workman" so as to include everybody who is in the employment of another, with the exception of persons earning more than £250 per annum (unless they are engaged in manual labour), persons casually employed, policemen, outworkers, and members of an employer's family dwelling in his house.

Further important extensions have been made by including certain industrial diseases as personal injuries by accident; by extending the meaning of "dependants" to include brothers, sisters, half-brothers and half-sisters, and by recognising within certain limits, the claims of illegitimates, and by making special provision for the application of the Act to seamen.

Other important alterations are that serious and wilful misconduct is to be a defence where the injury results in death or serious and permanent disablement; that failure to make a claim within the time limit is not an absolute bar when the failure is due to some reasonable cause or when the employer is not prejudiced; that disputes between "principals" and "contractors" must be settled by arbitration; and that the rights of the workman to compensation are more fully secured in the event of the insolvency of his employers.

In order to secure reliable information, employers may be required to make returns as to injuries sustained in their employments and compensation paid in respect thereof during any year.

In the matter of the scale and conditions of compensation, provision is made for more accurately calculating the actual average weekly earnings of a workman, and for securing to injured infant workmen more substantial compensation than formerly.

Compensation is payable from the date of the accident where incapacity lasts at least two weeks; in all other cases there is none for the first week.

Among the most salutary of the new provisions contained in the schedules are those which require compensation in the case of death to be paid into court, and which require all agreements for the redemption of weekly payments by a lump sum and agreements for settlement with dependants or with persons under a legal disability to be registered in court. The former of these provisions will go far towards preventing the squandering of these sums and towards securing their application to the purposes for which they are awarded, whilst the latter will prevent claimants from being imposed upon or from entering into improvident settlements. All the mischiefs hereby thwarted were numerous and serious defects which, under the original Act, there was little or no power to prevent. In connection with this it may also be mentioned that the court is now given power to vary from time to time its orders for the application of compensation as circumstances may require.

Contracting out of the Act is still forbidden except in so far as certified schemes are substituted for the provisions of the statute. Contracts existing on July 1st, 1907, which relinquished rights to compensation for injuries, terminated as notice to terminate them were given on that day; certified schemes then existing terminated six months from that date, unless in the meantime they were re-certified under the Act.

GENERAL SECRETARY'S REMARKS.

FELLOW-MEMBERS,

THE Forty-Eighth Annual Report of our Society is herewith submitted for your perusal, containing as usual detailed information in respect to the receipts and expenditure of our various branches and committees, together with other items of information that can only be obtained yearly through the medium of this Report, and always anxiously looked for by members taking an interest in the work of our organisation and the welfare of its members generally.

Writers on the subject of trade-unionism have truthfully said that fraternity is the bond that constitutes the strength of all organised institutions, and its championship of the weak and helpless victims of circumstances has established its mission as an element of progress, tending toward still higher results for the future, and, so long as it faithfully fulfils its mission of love to humanity, so long will the world need labour unions and so long will they exist.

The maxim of "all for each and each for all," that has for so long been the slogan of unselfishness in unionism, has retained its true meaning through panic and prosperity in the past, and the fidelity of brotherhood may be depended upon to stand whatever test the future has in store.

Those who can share these views will regard the work done by our Society during the year 1907 from an entirely different standpoint to those who see only the increased demands made on them in the fulfilment of our mission, and overlook the "helpless victims of cruel circumstances" in our ranks, viz., those members who for weeks and months have gone out on their weary tramp, day after day, searching for work to enable them to provide the means wherewith to live, but returning at night to their cheerless homes with its scanty cupboard and anxious families, unsuccessful.

The monthly records of our unemployed throughout the year have borne silent testimony to the serious extent our members have been affected, Although the expenditure incurred in supporting them was £6,000 less than that of 1906, this must not be regarded as evidence of any marked improvement in our trade, as, owing to the prolonged and general character of the depression, many hundreds have drawn the maximum twenty-four weeks' pay, and thereby exhausted their claims for further financial support. But in disbursing, as we have done, no less than £383,219 in unemployed benefit during the past five years, or within £14,664 of an equivalent to twice the amount of our net income for the year 1907, everyone must admit that it represents a record expenditure.

The net receipts for the year were £198,891. 14s. 2d., this being £42,222. 14s. 8d. less than 1906, which is accounted for by the fact that our General Levy throughout 1907 was less in amount per week, with the result that receipts from Contributions, Fines, and Levies alone show a decline of £43,853. 7s. 8½d., whilst under the heading of Propositions and Entrances we have an increase of £528. 9s. 9d., and in Bank Interest £695. 6s. 9d., together making £1,123. 16s. 6d. more than the previous year.

Our disbursements amounted to £209,406. 12s. 11½d., or £10,514. 18s. 9½d. in excess of receipts, thereby reducing our cash balance by that amount, causing it to stand at the close of the year at £111,808. 4s. 9½d. The detailed account of net receipts and expenditure of the whole Society is shown on page 374.

In connection with our expenditure it is worthy of note that £179,312. 12s. 2½d. was distributed amongst members under nine headings in the following proportions:—Unemployed Benefit, £71,229. 17s. 10d.; Sending Members to Situations, £179. 4s. 10½d.; Tool Benefit, £3,445. 6s. 4d.; Sick Benefit, £43,347. 16s. 8d.; Superannuation, £43,825. 3s. 1d.; Trade Privileges, £3,340. 15s. 0½d.; Accident Benefit, £4,305; Grants, £2,629. 18s. 2d.; Funerals, £7,509. 15s. 2½d.

To analyse this expenditure still further it will be seen that salaries of Secretaries, Treasurers, Sick Stewards, Auditors and Trade Management Expenses are responsible for a further sum of £13,563. 5s. 10½d., whilst the cost of Executive Council and our five District Committees abroad only amounted to £421 2s. 3½d., leaving £16,109. 12s. 7d. to meet the remaining requirements of the Society.

The proposals of the General Council to make certain alterations in the rules relating to the disbursement of Superannuation Benefit, together with the comments appearing thereon in our Monthly Reports on this subject, has caused many of our branches to forward to the G.O. disparaging remarks in respect to the treatment of these cases, some going as far as stating that in their opinion Superannuation was a dead letter in our Society.

It will, therefore, be information to know that during the year 1907 no less than 351 members made application for this benefit, many of whom had doubtless been induced to do so in consequence of having run through their unemployed benefit, and being unable to find work through bad trade.

All these cases were carefully considered on their merits, and the benefit granted to 305, the remaining 46 being deferred, and the members advised to take advantage of the provisions contained in Rule 41 for members over 50 years of age, and having regard to the trade benefits a member forfeits when placed on Superannuation, no doubt, when trade revives, many of them will realise that it has been to their advantage in doing so.

Every one realises that when the numbers seeking employment increase, the position of the aged becomes an exceedingly hard one, as preference is given to the strong and active, leaving the older ones behind, whose experience is not appreciated at its proper value, whilst machinery plays such an important part in the manufacture of joinery work, and some assert that the financial liabilities under the Acts of Parliament, providing compensation for injured workmen, have also added to the difficulties referred to.

This certainly may be a contributory cause, but, before the Workmen's Compensation Act was placed on the Statute book, if a job for one was available, and two applied for it, the chosen one would be the individual considered most likely to execute the greatest amount of work in return for the wages paid and the least fit would be passed over.

It is a most difficult problem, and all who are endeavouring to remedy to some extent the evils of unemployment for both old and young deserve every encouragement possible, and a society like ours doing so much to help forward this work, should receive a greater measure of support from those in whose behalf it was instituted and is carried on.

Organising work amongst members of our trade has not flourished as one could wish, but the amalgamation of branches advocated by the E.C. and G.C. has borne fruit, as quite a number have been merged together, so that whilst our admissions numbered 10,041, the net increase of branches has only been five; and although exclusions reached a total of 6,851, it is satisfactory to note that this number is 2,272 less than 1906, and, taken from this report, our membership at the close of 1907 was 68,735, or an increase on the year of 2,373.

The satisfaction derived from these figures in regard to the membership of our Society is discounted by the fact that we are still 2,812 below the record of 1908, and the student of trade-unionism, if he happens to be outside our ranks, will naturally ask himself the question "Has the need of a trade organisation for joiners become less pressing, or has our Society outlived its usefulness?" and if he turns to the details furnished on page 874 he will find that unemployment is decidedly as prevalent as ever, and that members need support. That tools are lost and require replacing; accidents happen as frequently as ever for which compensation is awarded, in addition to bearing the cost of legal proceedings for the recovery of further compensation under the Acts of Parliament; and that members still grow old and no Old Age Pensions for them yet outside that provided by their union, whilst the privileges enjoyed by our trade have still to be vigorously defended or they would be taken away, and improvements fought for and gained but seldom voluntarily proffered, and in the face of these facts, he, the student, would turn away in despair of finding the solution.

Inside our organisation many of us believe we know the principal cause for this decline during the past four years, but I sincerely hope that those now with us will use every endeavour to not only regain our former position, but to exceed it, so that at the close of 1908 we may have a record membership to report.

It is not my intention to linger further on the past year's record, but look happily forward to the future, and whilst it is evident that our brothers in the United States and Canada and South Africa have been, like ourselves, severely hit by trade depression, Australia and New Zealand have been more fortunate, and from branches in each of the countries named substantial remittances have been received towards the general expenses of the Society, coupled with sympathetic references and good wishes to members on this side, which, in their name and on their behalf, I desire to reciprocate, and trust that the clouds now hovering over almost the entire area to which our Society extends may soon display the proverbial silver lining, and that if I am privileged to address you next year through the medium of our Forty-ninth Annual Report I may be able to congratulate you on a much larger increase of members, and expenditure considerably less than has been the case on this occasion.

Yours faithfully,

F. CHANDLER, GENERAL SECRETARY.

It is not my intention to linger further on the past year's record, but look happily forward to the future, and whilst it is evident that our brothers in the United States and Canada and South Africa have been, like ourselves, severely hit by trade depression, Australia and New Zealand have been more fortunate, and from branches in each of the countries named substantial remittances have been received towards the general expenses of the Society, coupled with sympathetic references and good wishes to members on this side, which, in their name and on their behalf, I desire to reciprocate, and trust that the clouds now hovering over almost the entire area to which our Society extends may soon display the proverbial silver lining, and that if I am privileged to address you next year through the medium of our Forty-ninth Annual Report I may be able to congratulate you on a much larger increase of members, and expenditure considerably less than has been the case on this occasion.

Yours faithfully,

F. CHANDLER, GENERAL SECRETARY.

*The affairs of this branch having necessitated special investigation, a member of the E.C. was appointed for this purpose, his report disclosing serious irregularities and neglect on the part of several of the officers, the principal offender being the B.S., against whom legal proceedings were instituted, and a verdict obtained against him. As a result of this audit the late treasurer, J. McKeown, was held responsible for the above sum of £10. 15s., which he disputed, and desired a further audit of the books by some other individual. The E.C. expressed their willingness to accede to this request by allowing the branch to appoint one and they the other, on condition that if the re-audit resulted in confirming the previous decision in respect to this matter, he (the late treasurer) must pay the expenses incurred. This offer he declined, and consequently the former decision was confirmed, and as this report showed that no attempt had been made to square the matter up, the E.C. decided that the amount must be paid within three months, or to be excluded from the society. F.C.

* On reference to the Annual Report of 1906, it will be seen that a remittance of £20, which had already been accounted for, was repeated, which had to be struck out, and the cash balance increased by that amount. Obtaining no satisfactory explanation of this item, the matter was placed in the hands of our solicitor, who made a strict investigation and reported it as bad bookkeeping but not fraudulent, consequently the responsible officer was called upon to pay the cost of the investigation, which decision was upheld by the G.C. on appeal (see Minutes, page 26). The balance published in 1906 having to be reproduced, the above entry is necessary in order to rectify the transaction.—F. C.

* A late treasurer of this branch, Joseph Cartwright, was found deficient £84. 0s. 8½d. in the cash belonging to the society. A solicitor was consulted and the matter placed in his hands, who obtained an undertaking to repay the amount due, but as only a small portion of this money has been made good and the member excluded from the society, other steps will have to be taken for its recovery, but in order to prevent complications in the accounts of the branch, the deficiency has been recorded as above.—F O.

* This amount represents the defalcations of the late treasurer, Thomas O'Connell. He was tried at the Sessions on January 6th, 1908, when the Recorder deferred his case until April next, to see what effort would be made to repay the money belonging to the society, when he will decide on the punishment of this defaulting officer. It may be here stated that £10 of this amount has been paid into the G.O. accounts, £8 in 1906, and a similar amount in 1907, leaving the net defalcations as £87. 11s. 1d. — F. O.

* The late treasurer of this branch, John Dooley, having been found deficient in cash entrusted to his care, steps were taken to compel him to make good the amount, and a sum of £5 was paid through our solicitors, and appeared in the G.O. accounts for the September quarter. All efforts having failed to secure from him any further instalments, proceedings were instituted for embezzlement of the society's funds, the case being tried at the Carlow Sessions in January of the present year, and he was duly convicted.—F. YEARLY REPORTS

Managing and United Trade Committees.

In conformity with rule these accounts are now published in our Annual Report.

Full detailed information in respect to all items summarised have been furnished in the half-yearly statements issued by these committees. It is, therefore, hoped that the condensed form in which they appear here will be accepted as satisfactory, without unduly increasing the size of our Annual by small details which appear in describing the expenditure incurred.

No account has been taken of the income and expenditure of the committees for the purpose of our Net Table, as to do so would be duplicating the transactions, as these will have appeared in the branch accounts.

GENERAL SECRETARY'S REMARKS.

FELLOW-MEMBERS,

IN accordance with rule the financial operations of our Society for the year ending December, 1908, in all its branches have been carefully compiled and submitted for your information in this our FORTY-NINTH ANNUAL REPORT.

The year 1908 will rank as the most memorable one in the history of our Union, as during its brief span a combination of events occurred which tested its stability to a degree never before experienced.

In the first place, it has had to support a larger number of members on unemployed benefit than in any previous year, averaging upwards of 5,425 continuously throughout the entire twelve months, and when the sick and superannuated are added to the list it represents a monument of self-help having but few parallels in the trade union movement.

It was also our misfortune during the first part of the year in having (in conjunction with other woodworking trades on the North-East Coast) to bring into play the militant side of our organisation in resisting a reduction of wages in the shipbuilding industry.

The struggle was a prolonged and costly one, and fought with characteristic determination, which deserved success, and would probably have secured it but for two important facts, one being a miscalculation on the part of the men directly affected in respect to the prospects of increased orders for new ships, and the other being the action of the Federated Employers in bringing into operation throughout the entire area over which their jurisdiction extended that merciless weapon "The General Lockout," thereby throwing on to the funds of the several unions thousands of members with whom there was no dispute, and who had no part or lot in the transaction which led up to the outbreak of hostilities.

Throughout this trying period, whilst our Union was struggling under the burden of unemployment and the combined attack of the Federated Employers, we were engaged seeking once more to consolidate our trade by bringing about the amalgamation of a kindred union with our own, an object in strict fulfilment of the mission inaugurated at the formation of the Society in 1860, and whenever the opportunity offered itself continued ever since.

Our non-success and the reasons for same are matters of history, but time, the great leveller of all things and all people, will, I predict, at no distant date, furnish such convincing evidence of the need for closer association of unions in similar trades, as a first and necessary step toward the greater question of unity of labour as a whole, that will render the task (so far as our trade is concerned) comparatively easy when the effort is again made to bring amalgamation about.

This event, coupled with the difficulties experienced in getting our amended rules into circulation, necessitated two special meetings of the General Council during the year, with the result that there was a second vote taken on several of our general rules, and, added to this, the ballot votes on shipyard questions and the election of members to fill the many and varied offices required under the complicated constitution of our Society, it involved a continuous demand of time and labour on the part of all officers, both branch and general, unprecedented in the annals of our organisation.

In this brief survey members will realise to some extent the difficulties experienced by our Society during the period covered by this Report; but the most serious has not yet been referred to, viz., the depletion of our membership, which, from 68,735 recorded in our Annual Report for 1907, has decreased to 61,220 in the present one, or a reduction of 7,515 during the twelve months.

To earmark any one special reason for this defection would be wrong, it being due to a variety of causes, the chief being the absolute inability of many to meet the increased demands made upon them in the form of general levies, as, from all parts of the country came repeatedly the cry, our wages will not admit of paying 2s. 6d. and 2s. per week, and members are leaving the branch in consequence of this. Others, although well able to pay all demands made upon them, took exception to the alteration of rules relating to Superannuation Benefit and ceased contributing to our funds, and in the ordinary course of events became excluded for arrears; whilst another fruitful cause of secession can be attributed to the action of the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners in America, who at this juncture renewed their hostile attitude toward our members on that continent, becoming most active in discriminating against them and offering great inducements to join their union, the number of exclusions in the United States and Canada reaching a total of 3,989, most of whom probably have gone over to the organisation referred to.

This is not a matter for surprise, when we consider that, although the Trade Section in 1905 was opened out to all ages in the United States and Canada, to enable our organisation to compete more successfully with the Brotherhood in the admission of candidates, the fact remained that our contributions and general levies were much higher than the larger union, so that when it became a question with our members of choosing whether to remain with us, paying higher dues and subject to repeated attacks and discrimination whenever the two sections came in contact with each other, or transfer their allegiance to the Brotherhood, with less to pay and the advantage of being assisted into employment and welcomed there, it can readily be seen on which side the decision would be given.

The returns furnished show that during the year 24 new branches were opened and 26 closed, leaving 908 in working order with a total membership in the Ordinary Trade and Junior Sections of 61,220, distributed as follows:—England and Wales, 40,309; Ireland, 4,548; Scotland, 5,262; United States of America, 5,099; Canada, 1,957; New Zealand, 1,996; Australia, 1,571; and South Africa, 478.

The admissions numbered 5,798 and exclusions 11,808, made up as follows:—

England and Wales—Admissions	2284	Exclusions.....	5060
Ireland.....	698	997
Scotland	576	812
United States of America ..	592	2448
Canada.....	331	1541
New Zealand.....	880	188
Australia.....	388	252
South Africa	106	60

From these figures it will be seen that branches in the United Kingdom admitted 3,558 new members and excluded 6,869, and in the United States and Colonial branches the admissions numbered 2,235 and the exclusions 4,489.

The net receipts reached a total of £279,869. 18s. 0½d. but included in that amount is £15,500 of the loan made to us by the Engineers' Society and our Birmingham members, also a sum of £1,078. 18s. 7d. which represents our deposit in connection with the working agreement entered into with the United Brotherhood of Carpenters in America returned to us on the termination of same, which leaves £263,290. 14s. 5½d. as proceeds from our ordinary sources of income, being an increase of £64,899. 0s. 3½d. on the previous year.

It is therefore clear that whilst our general levy may in a measure have been responsible for the decrease of membership, it has enabled the Society to discharge its liabilities, which could not have been done on the ordinary contributions, as, in spite of the fact that the general levy has averaged on the year in branches outside the United States, 11d. per member per week Ordinary Section and 8½d. per week Trade, our Cash Balance, which stood at £111,808. 4s. 9½d in our last Annual Report, has been reduced to £98,866. 9s. 5½d. in the present one.

If, however, we write off the £15,500 loan owing it shows an actual decrease in our Cash Balance during the year of no less than £88,941. 15s. 4d.—as, outside the one item of contributions and levies, every other section of our receipts shows a considerable falling off compared with 1907.

In regard to our disbursements, these amounted to £298,811. 8s. 4½d., this being £88,904. 15s. 5d. in excess of the previous year, the expenditure on each of our several benefits having gone up considerably.

No one will be surprised to learn that the heaviest item relates to Unemployed Benefit, as members who take the Monthly Reports will have noticed that the unemployed members averaged throughout the year 11½ per cent, whilst taking the Ordinary Section alone and those of them who were actually receiving unemployed benefit, it averaged 9¾ per cent, consequently the cost of this benefit reached the unprecedented total of £112,258. 18s. 10d.

Sick members required £45,292. 6s. 9d., Superannuated £46,779. 5s. 3½d., and Trade Privileges £42,842. 7s. 10d., or a total of £247,167. 13s. 8½d. expended on these four items.

In pursuing this subject it will be observed that Sending Members to Situations cost £984. 1s. 11½d., Tool Benefit £8,396. 16s. 2d., Funerals £7,816. 8s., Accident Benefit £5,010, and Benevolent Grants £8,546. 17s. 9d., or a further total of £19,604. 8s. 10½d., which, added to the previous one, amounts to £266,771. 17s. 7d. paid back in actual benefits to our members under their several headings, and as our receipts (outside loans) only amounted to £263,290. 14s. 5½d., it will be seen that the payment of these benefits absorbed the whole of it, together with £8,491. 3s. 1½d. taken from our cash balance.

The Old-Age Pensions Act that came into force on January 1st, 1909, entitling, under certain defined regulations, all persons over 70 years of age to a weekly sum not exceeding 5s. is the foundation of a measure which the workers in this country have for many years kept to the front, and, although disappointment was felt that the qualifying age was not lower, it has, even in its restricted form, conferred a great boon upon upwards of half-a-million of aged people, and this number will no doubt in the near future be considerably increased by reducing the age and removing some of the restrictions at present attached to the measure.

It will no doubt be interesting to the readers of these remarks to know something of the extent to which this beneficial measure will affect our own aged members, which can be gathered from the following record:—

On March 19th, 1909, we had 2,717 members on our Superannuation list, and out of this number 810, or 30 per cent, were over 70 years of age, but as 159 of these were in our American and Colonial branches it left 2,558 in Great Britain, 775 of whom were over 70 years of age who would be entitled to 7s. or 8s. per week from our Society, and if this was their only source of income would each have a legitimate claim for the maximum amount of 5s. per week from the State.

This experience of our own, coupled with the fact that most of the applicants for superannuation (up to the time of the recent depression in trade) were over 60 years of age, disposes of the oft-repeated assertion that none of our members live long enough to entitle them to the benefit of this old-age pension scheme.

A few years ago the Trade Unions of this country were confronted with a decision of our judges which, contrary to all authorities on Trade Union Law, placed upon the Unions the responsibility for acts done by their representatives, whether authorised or not, and rendered their funds as a whole liable to be swallowed up at any moment in payment of damages for alleged financial injury, which caused the combined forces of labour to unite at the last general election in returning to Parliament members of its own class pledged to remedy this innovation.

The success which attended their efforts is now a matter of history. The Trade Disputes Act having become law it effectually prevents such decisions being given in future, but to accomplish this the Labour Party had to be created by the Trade-unionists levying themselves a few pence each per quarter to provide the necessary funds for election purposes and maintaining its members in Parliament.

We have, however, a further decision to contend against, the Court of Appeal having ruled that whilst a majority of the members of a Trade Union may decide to levy themselves in support of almost any conceivable purpose for the promotion of the interests of its members, it is illegal to do so in providing funds for securing the return to Parliament of men of its own class and supporting them whilst there, under the constitution of the Labour Party.

This decision will be appealed against to the House of Lords, and if upheld, will, like the Taff Vale case, require legislation to secure for Trade Unions the rights enjoyed by all other associated bodies of men, viz., to use the Parliamentary methods and machinery for the furtherance of reforms which as a class we stand so greatly in need of.

It is a matter for regret to note that, unlike the Taff Vale decision, which was brought about by the action of a railway company against the trade union, this latest infliction is the product of a member for whose benefit the Labour Representation Scheme was brought into existence.

In closing these remarks, I desire to urge upon my fellow-members, with all the earnestness at my command, not to be depressed by the records it has been my duty to place before you, but look rather to the good work accomplished. Remember the thousands that have been helped and sustained by our associated efforts, and although it has involved sacrifices, remember that no good cause was ever yet accomplished without, and if those who have remained true to their principles of unionism throughout this trying time will each resolve to do his part in repairing the breach which loss of members has brought about, there is no doubt whatever but that our organisation will soon recover its strength, both numerically and financially; and that, profiting by our experience, it will increase in power and usefulness, if members will only resolve that such shall be the result, and work for its accomplishment.

Yours faithfully,

F. CHANDLER,

GENERAL SECRETARY.

THE WORKMEN'S COMPENSATION ACT, 1906.

This Act, which repeals the existing Acts, came into operation on July 1st, 1907, and brings six million more workers within its privileges.

It sweeps away the incongruities created by the original statute by extending its benefits to nearly every kind of employment, this is effected by extending the word "workman" so as to include everybody who is in the employment of another, with the exception of persons earning more than £250 per annum (unless they are engaged in manual labour), persons casually employed, policemen, outworkers, and members of an employer's family dwelling in his house.

Further important extensions have been made by including certain industrial diseases as personal injuries by accident; by extending the meaning of "dependants" to include brothers, sisters, half-brothers and half-sisters, and by recognising, within certain limits, the claims of illegitimates, and by making special provisions for the application of the Act to seamen.

Other important alterations are that serious and wilful misconduct is to be no defence where the injury results in death or serious and permanent disablement; that failure to make a claim within the time limit is not an absolute bar when the failure is due to some reasonable cause or when the employer is not prejudiced; that disputes between "principals" and "contractors" must be settled by arbitration; and that the rights of the workman to compensation are more fully secured in the event of the insolvency of his employers.

In order to secure reliable information, employers may be required to make returns as to injuries sustained in their employments and compensation paid in respect thereof during any year.

In the matter of the scale and conditions of compensation, provision is made for more accurately calculating the actual average weekly earnings of a workman and for securing to injured infant workmen more substantial compensation than formerly.

Compensation is payable from the date of the accident where incapacity lasts at least two weeks; in all other cases there is none for the first week.

Among the most salutary of the new provisions contained in the schedules are those which require compensation in the case of death to be paid into court, and which require all agreements for the redemption of weekly payments by a lump sum and agreements for settlement with dependants or with persons under a legal disability to be registered in court. The former of these provisions will go far towards preventing the squandering of these sums and towards securing their application to the purposes for which they are awarded, whilst the latter will prevent claimants from being imposed upon or from entering into improvident settlements. All the mischiefs hereby thwarted were numerous and serious defects which, under the original Act, there was little or no power to prevent. In connection with this, it may also be mentioned that the court is now given power to vary from time to time its orders for the application of compensation as circumstances may require.

Contracting out of the Act is still forbidden except in so far as certified schemes are substituted for the provisions of the statute. Contracts existing on July 1st, 1907, which relinquished rights to compensation for injuries, terminated as if notice to terminate them were given on that day; certified schemes then existing terminated six months from that date, unless in the meantime they were re-certified under the Act.

* A rather regrettable feature to record in connection with the affairs of this branch, is that the great majority of its members, headed by the officers, seceded to the Brotherhood, and entailed the society in considerable trouble, and expenses in legal proceedings in recovering the books and effects, necessitating calling in the services of a public accountant, which showed that a deficiency of no less a sum than £105. 7s. 8½d. could not possibly be accounted for, so there is no alternative but to record the same.

* In the Annual Report for 1907 a sum of £11. 1s. 6d., trade privileges, appeared to have been disallowed by the D.C., and the cash balance was increased in a corresponding amount.

In the present Annual a sum of £9. 1s. is entered as trade privileges returned, leaving a sum of £2. 15s. 6d. yet to be made good.

Therefore, the balance from 1907 has been corrected, and the present balance increased by £2. 15s. 6d.—F. C.

YEARLY REPORTS

Managing and United Trade Committees.

In conformity with rule these accounts are now published in our Annual Report.

Full detailed information in respect to all items summarised have been furnished in the half-yearly statements issued by these committees. It is, therefore, hoped that the condensed form in which they appear here will be accepted as satisfactory, without unduly increasing the size of our Annual by small details which appear in describing the expenditure incurred.

With the exception of the payments made towards the upkeep of district delegates, no account has been taken of the income and expenditure of the committees for the purpose of our Net Table, as to do so would be duplicating the transactions, as these will have appeared in the branch accounts.
